And lastly I have the dreaded question I don't like to ask but I need to know. If something terrible happens to your pet while you are gone, do you want to be contacted or wait till you get back home to find out? I of course, will take your pet to your vet and have it held their awaiting your return unless you choose cremation and want it done and you pick up ashes on your return home, I will not make euthanasia decisions though and will contact you if that is the case - Yes, Contact Me No, I rather not have it ruin my trip

In Case of the death of your pet do you choose?

Have the body held at vet Cremation, have it done while we are still away please
